

Hello,

In all our prisons, wherever they are:

We Free Prisoners

have never accepted any repressive conditions, including physical.

In Greece we have resisted the threat of extradition (to Turkey).

They tried to subject us to dishonourable strip searches, we resisted.

When we resisted they tried to intimidate us by throwing us into cells, exile, obstructing our release and using disciplinary punishments.

We continue to resist, not letting any punishment intimidate us.

To resist is to not surrender. Not to surrender means to be free.

After this we will seize the day and achieve victory by not surrendering under any conditions.

Freedom will be won by the people who show solidarity in resistance.

Because the most unbeatable force is the organised force of the people.

Greetings
